SATAKUNTA FILM CENTRE association

Satakunta Film Centre is one of twelve regional movie centres in Finland. It was established in 1993. SFC takes action for being a local cultural AV-media centre. Its aim is to advance knowledge and basic training of media culture. SFC executes many kinds of new media-equipmental operations and different kinds of projects in the rural area. Also traditional movie presentation is still a part of SFC's work mainly in schools. The premises are located in Pori, near the water tower. The premises include an education room and an editing studio.

SFC's operations are accented to the work with children and youngsters, AV-media education and citizen journalism although SFC provides also many other forms of action for different target groups. Media education method is based on experimentalism, learning by doing. SFC provides the equipment and guidance for the means of self-expression. By doing yourself it is easy to get an effective and subjective touch to the resources of the moving picture. The final result in these projects is usually from beginning till the end self-made movie.

We are providing courses for school as a part of expression teaching, afterschool clubs, youth and community centers and conventional centers of villages. Our selection amongst audiovisual expression ranges different forms of a movie, animation, multimedia, internet etc. Digital technology enables making media yourself – only imagination's the limit. Nowadays media skills are a part of the civic skill. SFC offers the guidance to use the equipment and the expression in an efficient way.
